

Portfolio: Sonya Hirsch

Over the last few years, Sonya Hirsch, who is aged 25, has worked for the Sunday Telegraph and also her work was published in the Observer, and The Times. Elsewhere, some of her colour and black and white photography has appeared in the glossies and she has undertaken stills work of television productions. Keenly interested in the photography of animals, she has naturally found a particular annual interest in the Cruft's Dog Show. Some of her pictures, taken at this year's event, are shown here and she is fascinated by the relationship between the animals and their owners, as well as in the anthropomorphic aspects of the animals' behaviour. In private life, Sonya Hirsch is the wife of Observer photographer David Newell-Smith.
